How to Setup your Website Directory

Navigate to your website directory
Inside this directory, create another directory called Styles Your main website directory should have the structure like that shown on the right	Open your text editor – be sure to use the same text editor you used to create your HTML pages - and create a file in the Styles directory you just created called StyleSheet.css
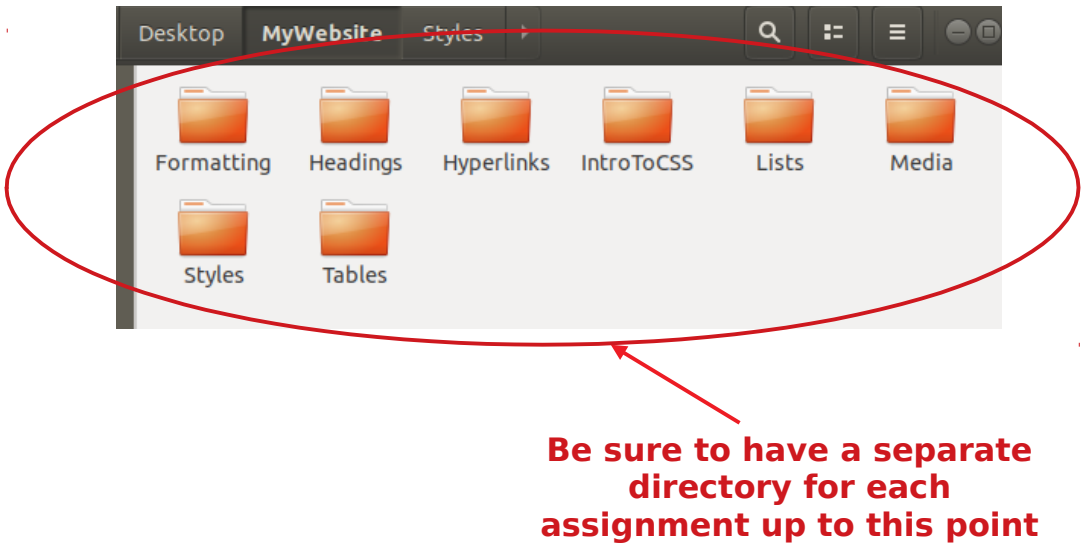
Now return to your main website directory and create another directory called IntroToCSS. Your main website directory should now look as follows,



Open your text editor and create a file in the IntroToCSS directory you just created called Index.html
